Panel discussion

2024, Judith Creed Art is focused on developing a presence in the Greater Philadelphia art scene as an emerging fine artist working on city scapes and abstract imagery by commission only.

I now work from my heart, allowing the process of experimenting with shapes and color and materials to unfold and envelop me in the moment. I thrill at the transitory natures of each paint stroke — the imperfections of my own nature show up on the canvas and feel special as I marvel at the effects of unintended elements and accidental discoveries. Each time I start a painting — it's brand new all over again.

And that's how I got to paint. Very late in life! My art room calls me every day — and I can't say no. I love it!!

The world of painters and painting is unique and special. I feel very lucky to have found it.

Quotes / Soundbites

I see the world in color and shapes and my brush and materials tell the story.

I paint in the moment-sometimes impulsively-sometimes planned.

Every painting feels like the first time.. exhilarating.

I don't have an artistic plan-the art leads me.

Art was a surprise that happened later in life. I'm grateful!!

Art inspires my day.
